Hockey Line-Up Cause of Keen Speculation

Last Season's Executive Resigns at Annual Meeting

McBurney, Barnes and Rippon Refuse Office After Several Years With Coleman Canadians — Harry Gardner New President

New officers were elected at a general meeting of Coleman Canadians hockey club in the council chambers on Friday evening. Those elected were: Hon. pres., Geo. Kellock; president, H. Gardner; vice-pres., A. Gentile; sec-treas., A. Easton; executive, A. Easton, Geo. Burchell, A. Balloch; business manager, Wm. Gate; coach, J. Evans.

Coleman will make application to the newly proposed senior league, including teams from Calgary, Drumheller, Lethbridge and Coleman.

Oct. 15 is the deadline for registering players who will be eligible to play in the play-offs. The new officers have already sent letters to several promising hockey players in the province with the intention of strengthening the team as much as possible. Both Fisher and Barry left Coleman during the summer months and are definitely lost to the Canadians. Kemp will be approached to play in the next season. Evans will likely be playing-coach, having made application for his amateur card and, if successful, should be eligible to play on Jan. 1, 1938.

Games played in the Crow league last season were a losing proposition and receipts were down from the year previous in practically every game. A loss of $110 is shown on the Luncar calendar which was played in Calgary and Lethbridge. The financial statement as submitted by the retiring officers is as follows:

McGillivray Second in St. John Ambulance Ass'n. Competition

Six Months Preparation Brings Reward to Persistent Competitors.

McGillivray mine team, which competed in the St. John Ambulance Association competition in July, under direction of Colonel Snell, director-general, received word of having been awarded second place in the competition for the provincial trophy.

Team members were A. McCulloch, captain; A. S. McIntosh, Joseph Smith, W. Lonsbury, Tom Brennen and Harley Dunlop.

Preparation for these competitions extended over about six months, consequently it is very gratifying to learn that the team has been awarded the distinction of second place. First place was awarded to the C.P.R. Oden shops, Calgary.

WEEKLY PAPERS HIGHLY VALUED BY ADVERTISERS

"We have found the weekly newspapers of inestimable value and help in the past, not only from a customer standpoint, but from a dealer standpoint. A continuance of the policy of using rural weeklies is the obvious answer."

The foregoing is from a letter written by one of the largest Canadian advertising agencies, Messrs. Cockfield, Brown & Co., Ltd., Montreal, which firm is placing the advertising for the Home Improvement Plan under the National Employment Commission.

Beigun and Beddington Win Homing Society Cups

Coleman Homing Society Closes Most Successful Season in Its History—Thanks to All Who Helped

On Saturday, September 11th, the Coleman Homing Society completed their 1937 racing schedule, when they flew the Young Birds' Grand Championship race from Wetaskiwin, an airline distance of 237 miles.

At stake were the Pattinson Cup and first prize for the first bird home, the Vee-8 Cup and nomination pool for the first nominated bird, and prizes donated by Mr. G. Kellock, Mr. J. J. McIntyre, Mr. A. Dow and Dr. Borden. Eleven members competed with 92 birds and the result was a repetition of last year, with the birds of A. Belgun and P. Beddington second. The complete result:

A. Belgun—Pattinson Cup and 1st prize.
P. Beddington—Vee-8 Cup for 1st nominated bird, the nomination pool and 2nd prize.
J. Hurkot—3rd prize.
J. Eyzackers—4th prize.
C. Makin—5th prize.

This has been the Coleman Homing Society's most successful year. In competition with Southern Alberta clubs it put Coleman to the front by P. Eyzacker winning the Federation 500-mile race and C. Makin winning the 650-mile Federation race.

With twelve members competing it has been a just cause for pride when a win was obtained. P. Eyzackers and C. Makin were fairly prominent as winners, but most members came in with wins occasionally. Belgun and Beddington repeating their last year's duel in the final race.

The clocking-in time for the championship race was as follows:

1. A. Belgun	5 Hr. 30 Sec.
2. P. Beddington	5 37 24
3. J. Hurkot	6 46 28
4. P. Eyzackers	6 45 47
5. C. Makin	6 53 22

In closing the season the Coleman Homing Society wishes to extend its sincere thanks to those whose names have appeared in each race report as donors of prizes, the Coleman C.P.R. staff for their many services, and es-

PRESIDENT

GEORGE W. JAMES

President of Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, elected at the annual convention in Halifax. He is editor of the Bowmanville (Ont.) Statesman, established in 1854, Durham County's Great Family Journal. First and second vice-presidents are Frank J. Burns, The Advertiser, Kentville, N.S., and H. T. Halliwell, The Journal, Coleman, Alta.

NAME PULLMAN FOR BOWMANVILLE

Returning to Bowmanville from the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at Halifax, N.S., Editor Geo. W. James was about to retire on the train one evening when other editors insisted he was in the wrong pullman and insisted there was a special pullman for him further back in the train. Believing it to be a practical joke, Mr. James decided to see what it was, but surely enough there was a pullman on the train named "Bowmanville". Whether the car was placed on the train because a Bowmanville editor was the new president of the Association, or whether it was just a coincidence, we have not learned. However, the name "Bowmanville" is getting some coast to coast advertising.—The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, Ont.

CHANGE OF HOURS NEXT WEEK IN BANKING ASSOCIATION BROADCAST

Next week over CFCN the broadcasts by Mr. Vernon Knowles, public relations advisor for the Canadian Banking Association, will be as follows: Tuesday evening, Sept. 21, from 8.30 to 8.45, and on Wednesday, Sept. 22, from 12 noon to 12.15.

These broadcasts, giving the truth about banking, are arousing popular interest owing to the attacks made by Premier Aberhart and his arousing of antagonism towards the Canadian banking system.

Especially the trouble they went to procure comfort and service for our birds while in transportation and at the liberation points, also those at liberation points who have cared for and liberated our birds. To all these we say—thanks a million.

The Truth About Aberhart and The Weeklies

His Statement Does Not Tell Whole Story of Alberta Newspapers' Opinions—Financial Post's Survey Is Very Informative on Opinions of Weeklies.

In his Sunday broadcast, Premier to increase purchasing power. Lack Aberhart declared an article in the of counter propaganda to his destructive Financial Post stated that all Alberta tive and demoralizing teachings is a weekly newspapers with the exception factor in his favor which should receive the consideration of banks and other financial institutions under attack. The weekly newspapers of Alberta, without exception, without any attempt by their association at regimentation, have roundly condemned Aberhart policies and it would appear that on them, in addition to the dailies, has fallen the task of trying to offset the unprincipled and unjustified attacks of a man who, under the cloak of his Bible Institute and the promptings of his 'experts', is doing his best to isolate Alberta from fulfilling its part as a province of the Dominion.

"Aberhart still has a large following of people who will always favor taking from those who have to give to those who have not, his appeals to the mob being almost similar to those of the Communist party, and he is just as unreasoning and illogical. It is difficult to say whether or not he would be returned to office. A large number have that blind faith in Aberhart which does not permit them to see anything but Aberhart. Have they lost faith in Social Credit? Possibly a percentage have, but they will not admit it. Some who admit his inability to implement his promise exclaim, 'Well, he has given us good government.'"

The Financial Post has polled the weeklies for a cross section of opinion in the rural districts—admittedly the stronghold of Social Credit.

"It is significant that while 95% of the weekly editors of Alberta are opposed to Aberhart, and do not believe Social Credit is practical, only three concede a chance to defeat the government if an election is held immediately, and not one is completely confident.

"Most of the editors see a chance to get rid of the Social Crediters if a special election could be arranged as a single unit. This, they fear, is difficult at the moment. Their hopes are pinned on E. L. Gray, Liberal leader.

"Two take the stand that Social Credit is a disease and has to run its course; that recovery will come with the gradual attrition of the Aberhart forces.

"Not one of the 26 editors who answered the questionnaire favors Aberhart or Social Credit. S. R. Hodson, of the Okotoks Review, in Premier of Aberhart's own riding of High River, Okotoks, is the most optimistic. He confidently predicts the personal defeat of the premier; not quite so confidently calls for the defeat of the party.

"Except in a few cases, answers to the questionnaire are given without names. One publisher explains: 'I would withhold my name and the name of my district upon "the financial press" nearly 90% Social Credit in the last election, and I believe you will agree that there is no use stirring up a hornet's nest with those who are still gullible enough to fall for the promises.'"

The Journal was asked to comment on the situation for The Financial Post's survey, and reproduces it with reply:

Must Run Its Course
"The Social Credit disease has to run its course like the measles or scarlet fever. The most effectual cure will be for the people to have brought home to them the utter incapacity of Aberhart and his cabinet they do not so report the situation.

Wars and Confusion

In Europe, as on this continent, the outlook for war, the effect of gigantic preparations for war—or defence as the case may be—and the outcome which may be expected if there is a general conflagration involving the major powers, are providing material for much conflict of opinion and confusion of thought in the minds of the general public.

While the prospect of another great war must necessarily engender feelings of apprehension among the rank and file of all or any nations that might become involved one cannot help but be impressed by the fact that there are apparently two dominant and diametrically opposed beliefs on either side of the Atlantic on the question of the imminence of a serious outbreak.

While active preparations for combat, on a hitherto unprecedented scale, are being made in half a dozen countries in Europe, it is inconceivable that the view that there is no real danger in the immediate offing is largely held by Europeans, if credence is to be given to the opinions of visitors to the American continent from the other side of the Atlantic.

We are repeatedly being told by such visitors that Americans and Canadians are far more war conscious than are the European nationals, that apprehension which is rife on this continent as voiced in the press, magazine articles and in discussions wherever men get together, is almost absent across the water and that the people here are more greatly concerned as to the outcome of the march of events than are the citizens which these spokesmen represent.

It seems impossible to believe that in countries whose governments are bending every energy and taxing the people large sums to build up armaments of greater dimensions than history has ever recorded and who are recruiting men in every village and hamlet or are conscripting the flower of manhood, the people are not war conscious, whether they expect to be aggressors or on the defence. Even if the newspapers in these countries do not discuss the possibility of war to any great extent, the matter must surely be a topic of frequent discussion in the home and on the street, in restaurants and offices.

The very fact that these countries would be the first to bear the impact of an outbreak presages the supposition that such a possibility, or even probability, must be uppermost in the minds of the people close to the potential theatre of war and in all likelihood one of the combatants, when on all sides evidence of active preparation is so apparent.

There are many factors responsible for the confusion which exists in the public mind. These are the kaleidoscopic rapidly with which, the strength of the potentially combatant nations is changing in the course of a few weeks or months, with which the danger zones are shifting, with which dangerous incidents develop and then fade into oblivion and the difficulty of deciding in the welter of war news what is propaganda and what is actual fact.

To illustrate the bewilderment with which the centre of interest switches from one section of the globe to another, it is only a matter of a few weeks since the "civil" war in Spain occupied the spotlight in the daily press. Spain has now been relegated to the background and the Sino-Japanese conflict has taken its place in the headlines, not so much because the public is concerned about the outcome for China or Japan, that appears to be almost a foregone conclusion at the present time—but because they are interested and even concerned over the prospects of one or more European countries intervening or becoming involved willy nilly, thus setting the stage for the transfer of belligerency to other continents, sooner or later.

More than one authority has recently stated that Germany and Italy, who have been using Spain as a testing field for their implements of warfare, were disappointed to find that they did not come up to expectations, that experiments under field conditions have demonstrated that greater advances have been made in defence machinery and equipment than in weapons of aggression and that, for this reason, there is less likelihood of either of these two countries precipitating a surprise move against any other country for the present.

If this is the case, possibly the British people may be aware of this negative result in the Spanish laboratory and that, coupled with the knowledge that rearmament is proceeding apace in Great Britain with tremendous strides, may account for their apparent unconcern as to the immediate future.

However, whatever may be the outcome of the turmoil in Spain and China, incidents develop from time to time involving European and American nationals and shipping which are to say the least provocative and with world conditions as they are, with so much unrest, with, in many instances, internal politics dictating international policies, there is an ever present risk that some incident may arise which cannot be explained with satisfaction to all concerned and which as a result may precipitate another great conflict.

It is because of these possibilities that the reading public on this continent is taking a keen interest in war news, even though interest may, and does, from time to time, shift from one country to another. Yesterday it was Spain. To-day it is China. Tomorrow it may be somewhere else.

New Process Discovered

Converts Waste Substance In Petroleum Into Chemical Base

Discovery of a process to convert gasoline into the toluol which makes T.N.T. in quantities enough to supply the United States' entire need for this explosive in war-time, was reported to the American Chemical Society at Rochester, N.Y.

Another discovery, reported in a symposium which forecast a renewed golden age for oil, told of a new by-product industry by which waste substance known as the "aqueal" in petroleum, can be converted into hundreds of chemical "bases" many of them heretofore unknown to science.

Charles Goodyear was granted a patent for vulcanizing rubber in 1839.

Great Aid To Builders

Electrically Wires Dry Plaster In Less Than A Day

Damp walls on mass buildings projects in Moscow, Russia, are to be dried rapidly by a process which an electrician has invented. Plaster on new walls requires a long time to dry in winter, but now builders will dry it quickly by electricity. Rows of fine wire are placed under the plaster at distances of about six inches. A current from the city power lines, lowered in voltage by a transformer, is transmitted through the wires. Water is a conductor of electricity, and the plaster shares in the warmth imported by the current, drying in less than a day.

Hopes To Have Fleet

Singapore expects to have a complete fleet of its own for the Pacific when the naval base is finished there in 1939. The small island at the south extremity of the Malay Peninsula occupies a strong strategic position. Australia and New Zealand are expected to contribute to the new unit of defense organized by Great Britain.

Although Windsor, Ont., is directly across the river from Detroit, Mich., the Canadian city's death rate from murders is only one-fifth that of Detroit.

Real Cause For Anxiety

Germany's Grain Supply Is Short Many Million Bushels

From the utterances of the official spokesmen of the Nazi government, the outside world gains the impression that Germany is going forward in an acceptable fashion on all fronts. With important reservations, it is true that remarkable progress has been made by a nation which only eighteen years ago had been stripped of every last vestige of power and greatness. Germany is again a strong nation, unified, highly militarized and with a national leadership which, regardless of what else may be said about it, is effective.

There are, however, says the Peterborough Examiner, other aspects of the picture that are not so bright. It is significant that one of the important newspapers of Germany is threatened with suppression simply because it has revealed true conditions concerning the national food supply. The conditions provide real cause for anxiety.

One of the theories of the present government of Germany is that it is possible to make self-sufficient so that in time of emergency it may not be dependent upon outside sources for any of the necessities of life. In consequence of the pursuit of this policy, the German people are short 68,000,000 bushels of wheat and 35,000,000 bushels of rye.

The test of statesmanship comes when nations undertake to establish the terms of trade so that benefits will be mutual and national interests will be safeguarded. When it is impossible to meet this test, the alternative is self-sufficiency, which is usually attended by the results now being experienced in Germany.

Rapid Flight

Establishes New Sustained Speed Of 260 Miles Per Hour

Engineering science and the skilful plotting of Frank Fuller, of San Francisco, established two new records in the Bendix transcontinental race with a sustained speed of 260 miles an hour.

First, Fuller flew the 2,042 miles from Burbank, Cal., to Cleveland in seven hours, 55 minutes to win the Bendix race over six other contestants and eclipsed by almost 25 minutes the Bendix record for the distance set in 1932 by Capt. James Hailip.

That victory meant $9,000 to Fuller. Then Fuller swooped over Cleveland airport at 1,900 feet and soared on 400 miles to reach Bendix, N.J., in an hour and 40 minutes more and win $3,000 for the best time for the transcontinental flight. His elapsed time of 25 minutes, 35 seconds for the 2,426 miles broke the transcontinental Bendix record of 10 hours, two minutes set in 1934 by Colonel Roscoe Turner. Breaking this record brought Fuller a $2,500 bonus and ran his prize money to $14,000.

New Stopper For Bottle

Fool-Proof Cap Designed To Prevent Deaths By Poisoning

A doctor and his engineer friend, worried about the number of people killed by mistaking poison bottles for ordinary ones, have invented a poison bottle stopper which opens the wrong way.

In the dark, or in moments of forgetfulness, anyone trying to open a poison bottle in the ordinary turn-to-the-left way would merely screw the stopper more firmly into the neck of the bottle. To turn the stopper right-handed feels wrong and unnatural.

Full specifications of the invention, which has been covered by patents, have been sent to the poison board at the home office by the inventor, Dr. T. C. B. O'Brien. In the end, however, the board decided that it was not in a position to make the use of the stoppers compulsory.

To make the stoppers even more foolproof, a special design of stopper, with heavily embossed letters, has been designed.

A Versatile Mayor

Fred Gay, 77-year-old mayor of Pembroke, Wales, is self-supporting and then some. He knits his own socks, bakes his own bread and can cut and make his own shirts. "Ever since I was a boy I've been able to knit my own socks," he said. "I am an excellent nurse, too."

Could See Funny Side

Drought conditions in Central Saskatchewan are serious, but they have their humorous angles according to one elevator agent at Wingard, who received this message by telephone: "I sent my crop into town by my brother, and I I was wasted to tell you to be sure and send the sack back."

The bottom of Lake Superior, which is 1,180 feet below the surface in some places, is 578 feet below sea level.

Only Chance For Privacy

The King and Queen Enjoy Week-Ends At Royal Lodge

The King and Queen have retained Royal Lodge, Windsor Forest, as their "private" home and in doing so they follow the precedent set by King George V. and Queen Mary, who kept on York Cottage at Sandringham for 15 years after they came to the throne, Sandringham House being then in the occupation of Queen Alexandra. They were both devoted to York Cottage with its simple domestic life—it was a no uncommon experience for visitors bidden to tea on Sunday afternoon to have the front door opened to them by their royal host himself—and in just the same way the present King and Queen have developed a deep affection for the pleasant little country house where they have been so happy during the last few years. They have made many improvements, particularly in the garden, which is the special delight of the two little Princesses, and their week-ends at Royal Lodge are now all the more appreciated since they represent the sole remaining opportunity of escaping for a while from the glare of publicity. Though Windsor Great Park is, with the exception of the grounds of its few private residences, entirely open to the public, it is as a rule little frequented. At week-ends during the summer hundreds of rippers flock around Windsor Castle and hundreds more will be found at Virginia Water, but in between these two extremes peace reigns and you may walk for several miles and hardly meet a soul. The thousands of the old trees and the beautiful vistas make it one of the most delightful spots near London; in particular, the loveliest distant view of the Castle may here be obtained from the summit of the hill that rises beyond the end of the Long Drive.

Money In Old Clothes

Large Sum Restored To Owner After Clothes Had Been Sold To Rag Man

A $2,500 "gift" of old clothes, that netted a rag buyer $3 when he sold it to a second hand dealer, led to a police hunt which restored a family's finances.

The rag man called at Mrs. Beattie Morrow's apartment in Winnipeg, and was given some old clothes by her daughter, unaware that her mother had wrapped up a purse in them containing $2,500 which she had withdrawn from the bank to go to Toronto for medical treatment. It had been hidden temporarily in the clothes for "safe keeping."

When the mistake was discovered police were called and after locating the rag man they interviewed the second hand dealer who had bought the old clothes for $3. The dealer had not even opened the package he found in the clothes, finding the clasp stuck. The money was intact in two $1,000 bills, five $100 bills and one $20 bill and was returned to its relieved owner.

Ice Caps Melting

Explorer Thinks Two In Baffin Land Will Disappear

Lieutenant-Commander Donald B. MacMillan, back from two months exploring with a scientific expedition in polar waters, said the group's most important discovery was that Baffin Land contained two ice caps.

"The fact that the ice caps were 3,500 feet high eight years ago, and that they are half that high now, gives basis to the belief the ice caps will eventually disappear," said MacMillan.

Hitler Talks Of Peace and Germany's Need Of Colonies

Nuremberg, Germany.—Reichschancellor Hitler talked Sunday of lasting peace and Germany's need of colonies.

Germany needs peace for many years, the fuhrer said, and has no time for "senseless adventures" while she builds for economic security. The problem of food supplies and a gigantic building program alone are sufficient to keep Germany busy for 40 to 50 years, he said.

But, he added, Germany also needs colonies for self-sufficiency, those which she lost in the Great War and "no more." "We have a moral right to those colonies which belong to us," said the fuhrer.

He spoke at an interview with foreign correspondents here to report the National Socialist congress. Hitler declared the German of today does not want to live in foreign lands.

"He not only follows the byways of commerce but also follows his flag," Hitler said. "He does not see why Great Britain, Belgium, Spain, Portugal and Japan should have colonies and the reich should have none."

"Germany is accused of all sorts of designs, but we are tranquil now," he said. "We want nothing and do not desire to subjugate any foreign peoples." Hitler said the country was ready to devote itself to further "reconstruction."

Germany needs between 10 and 12 per cent. more food adequately to feed her people, Hitler declared.

"The issues of war and peace do not enter into the (colonies) question," he said. "This is an affair of reason and I am convinced that reason will win out."

In response to a query why he did not seek a solution in commercial exchanges, Hitler said that "undoubtedly" a solution could be found. "Buy from us as much as you want and we will buy as much as we can," he said.

Sir Edward Beatty Expresses His Faith In Prairie Provinces

Vancouver.—Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railways, told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce that, despite present drought conditions on the prairie provinces and marked decrease in production, the central area of the Dominion was well suited to permanent settlement.

In his address to the annual dinner of the chamber, which is now holding its 11th annual convention here, Sir Edward said:

"At this moment, following years of low prices, now succeeded by a year of disastrously low production but high prices, there are not a few who attempt to argue that the climate of western Canada is such that those who once forecast it would not produce enough to pay for the sale of grain of trains were right."

"It may be an opportune moment for me to express the most profound disagreement with any theory that the prairie provinces are unsuited for lasting settlement."

Sir Edward said the statement he often heard that the Canadian Pacific was responsible for plowing of land in the "famous Palliser triangle" that should have been left in natural range was wrong.

"For urgent national reasons the Canadian Pacific transcontinental main line was built from Winnipeg to Calgary and over the forbidding grades of the Kicking Horse Pass, although the original plan had been to construct it from Winnipeg to Edmonton and through the Yellow Head Pass," he said.

"Had that plan been followed, in the conditions which existed at the time of the Canadian Pacific construction, there can be little doubt

Jap Troops Wiped Out

Chinese Ambush Detachment Of 4,000 Near Peiping

Peiping.—A detachment of 4,000 Japanese troops was reported to have been wiped out by a Chinese ambush in the rocky hills west of here. The Japanese line was said to have been thrust back five miles. Japanese commanders were obviously worried over the fate of their operations in this area where their advance has been held up a month by a Chinese resistance and strategy.

Heavy reinforcements were flowing through Peiping to Lang-Hsing, 30 miles to the south, and to the menaced Japanese right flank in the western hills around Mentoukuo, 25 miles to the west.

Wounded Japanese streamed back from the front. Several thousand have been brought here in the last few days.

Reliable Chinese reports from Mentoukuo front, where the Japanese operations are threatened by a wide Chinese flank attack, said the 4,000 Japanese were drawn into a trap by retreating Chinese.

The Japanese pursued the retreat far into the maze of hills where the Chinese have prepared almost impenetrable positions. Then, from their lairs on the hill tops, the Chinese swarmed down, riddling the Japanese with machine gun fire and forcing them to retreat five miles to the east.

Describes War Horrors

Canadian Missionary Tells Of Scenes In Shanghai

Vancouver.—Some of the horrors of the first days of the Shanghai war are described by Miss Margaret Brown, a Canadian missionary evacuated from Shanghai, in a letter to a friend here.

She fell into the room above the one she was occupying in a boarding house, Miss Brown said in a letter which was written about the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia and posted in Hong Kong. Miss Brown was one of a half dozen Canadians aboard the vessel.

The missionary said the Canadian refugees were grateful to the British authorities, the British navy and the officers and crew of the Empress of Asia for all they had done for them.

"All have been made magnificent and we would like our fellow countrymen to know it," the letter said.

Frightful Carnage

Japanese Bomb Train Causing Heavy Loss Of Life

Shanghai.—Chinese spokesmen declared the Japanese aerial bombardment of the train standing in the Sungkiang station, causing frightful carnage and heavy damage to the line between Shanghai and Hangchow, served no military purpose.

They said the wrecked train, in which 1,550 Chinese civilians were fleeing from the war zone, carried no soldiers and that the Sungkiang station was not used by the army. Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese third fleet in Chinese waters, answered joint British, American and French neutrality proposals with demands that wrecked any hope the plan to assure safety of foreign interests and lives in Shanghai could be adopted.

Hasegawa insisted Chinese troops be withdrawn from a much larger area than the three-power naval note suggested.

His proposal was for Chinese troops to evacuate to the east of the Pootung road and for Japanese warships to move from the vicinity of the international settlement and the French concession on Shanghai's waterfront.

The Chinese answer, declining to withdraw unless foreign warships guaranteed no Japanese forces would be allowed to land in the Pootung area, also was believed to have defeated the plan, China left the way open for further negotiations.

Would Abolish Duty

Want Cancellation Of 10 Per Cent. Customs Tariff On X-Ray Machines

Ottawa.—The Canadian hospital council voted to memorialize the Dominion government, asking abolition of the 10 per cent. customs tariff on X-ray machines, and discussed possibility of future change in ethics of secrecy in the medical profession.

Dr. A. F. Anderson, of Edmonton, mover of the resolution to memorialize the government regarding duties, claimed British manufacturers had not taken advantage of the preferential treatment accorded them by the government under the Ottawa trade agreements, a preference that allowed free entry of X-ray supplies from the United Kingdom to this country.

Large Animal

Bones Of Monster To Be Reassembled At Smithsonian Institute

Washington.—One of the largest animals which ever walked the earth has been discovered and is being rebuilt by the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Charles W. Gilmore, paleontologist, said he found in western Utah the bones of a sauropterygian species of the dinosaurs which ruled the earth 80,000,000 to 150,000,000 years ago. The bones of the sauropterygian were recovered indicate that he was an ugly monster about 80 feet long and 15 feet high, Dr. Gilmore said.

Radio Regulations

Certain Subjects To Be Banned Over Radio In Future

Toronto.—Certain subjects, such as commentaries of market prices, will be banned over the radio in the future, Gladstone Murray, chairman of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said in an interview here. Restriction of recorded programs also was to be discussed by C.B.C. directors.

Other subjects to come under the ban will be radio liquor advertising and broadcasts on birth control, Mr. Murray said.

To encourage "live" talent in Canada, recorded programs will be banned between 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. unless special permission is given by the C.B.C.

Ban on market price broadcasting was to be made because "we've had too many complaints from people who've taken advice from some of these commentaries. They told us they lost money by it."

Delegation To League

Ottawa.—Canada's delegation to the League of Nations assembly this year is headed by Senator Raoul Dandurand, who, in 1925, was president of the sixth assembly of the league. With the veteran senator is Hon. James L. Halsey, national revenue minister, and Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Conference Meets Agreement For An International Patrol

Approves Rearmament

British Workers Say England Must Be Ready To Face Challenge

Norwich, Norfolk.—Necessity of an armed army in the troubled world was recognized by the trades union congress when a resolution approving rearmament was voted by a huge majority.

Representatives of more than 3,500,000 British workers in a card poll voted 3,544,000 to 244,000 to endorse a report on defence and foreign policy urging that the country be strongly equipped to play its part in collective security and to resist the "intimidation of the Fascist powers."

The vote was taken after Sir Walter Citrine, general secretary of the congress, had declared that if the delegates were convinced a measure of rearmament was necessary, "then common sense demands that rearmament cannot await the advent of a Labor government."

"As much as I distrust the British government," Sir Walter said, "I distrust the intentions of Mussolini and Hitler a great deal more. I cannot conceive of Germany and Italy arming as rapidly as they have done, without some definite purpose to threaten the world's peace."

"I want this country to be in a position to face this challenge in combination with other peace-loving states... bit by bit, weakness, hesitation, and refusal to face the Fascist aggressors have disturbed our people, and sooner or later we shall have a cry from the general public that the limits of restraint have been reached."

"Our duty is to rebuild the League of Nations, but in the meantime prime responsibility for the maintenance of peace will fall on the shoulders of our two countries adequately prepared and ready to maintain peace. How in these circumstances can we escape the conclusion that Great Britain should be alert against any attitude which would tend to give Germany a free hand to make war in eastern or central Europe?"

Japan Buys Scrap Iron

Takes Over Half Of United States Exports This Year

Washington.—Japan bought more than half of the United States record-breaking scrap iron and steel exports during the first seven months of this year, the commerce department said. All shipments during the period totalled 2,600,707 gross tons valued at $31,957,619, the highest level in history. Japan took 1,529,511 tons.

Geneva.—The Mediterranean conference in Lyons, warned by Russia that failure of the gathering to halt submarine "piracy" might lead to a clash between Italy and Russia, reached an agreement in principle for an international warship patrol.

Italy, whom Russia accused of sinking Soviet merchantmen, herself will have the chance to put down any possible outlaw torpedoes in the Mediterranean under the agreement.

She will be asked to police with her warships a zone in the sea while other navies patrol other zones to sink "pirate" submarines on sight.

British and French warships, under the plan, will survey the western Mediterranean while other zones will be allocated to other Mediterranean powers.

The agreement, as reached so far, has been submitted to all nine participating governments for approval and informed sources said it was hoped with confidence a complete protocol would be agreed to.

The general objects of the international patrol of the Mediterranean were given as:

1. To deal with violations of international law by sinking piratical submarines at sight;

2. To discourage all illegal submarine activities through organized control.

A British spokesman said the protocol provides international organization of naval forces "to end definitely an intolerable situation."

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian commissar and the Soviet Union's delegate at the conference, earlier gave the nine-power meeting an explosive opening with a thinly-veiled warning that failure by it to halt the submarine menace might lead to an Italo-Russian clash.

In the perturbed silence that followed his speech, the motion of Foreign Secretary Eden of Great Britain that the conference go into secret session to iron out technical details of protocol submitted by Britain and France was adopted.

The Soviet delegates outburst came shortly after Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister elected to the presidency, opened the conference.

Italy was not represented, nor was Germany, nor Albania whose foreign policy is dominated by Rome.

Perfects Safety Tank

London.—Gasoline fires after aeroplane crashes may soon be a thing of the past. The air ministry has perfected a gasoline tank which is crash, leak and fireproof. Following success of 13 years of experiment the safety tanks will be placed in both war planes and civilian planes.

Royal Commission Is Ready With Plans For Public Hearings

Ottawa.—With plans for public hearings in every provincial capital and in Ottawa to commence as soon as the provincial government submissions are ready, the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations completed organization here.

Chief Justice R. W. Rowell, of Ontario, chairman of the five-man commission, said he could not forecast a date for the opening session. "As soon as two or three of the provinces are ready with their submissions we will start," he said.

Because of the "enormous task" before the commission, Judge Rowell said evidence would be heard from Dominion and provincial governments and spokesmen for "recognized public organizations" which desire to be represented.

Persons representing only their own opinions will not be heard except in the possible event that the commission desires light on some particular problem and calls an expert for that purpose.

Municipalities, which are the creations of the provinces and derive their jurisdiction and taxation powers from the provincial legislatures, will be represented before the commission by the provincial governments, Judge Rowell said. If any provincial government desired its municipalities to go directly before the commission there would be no objection.

Members met here for private conferences. No further meetings are expected until taking of evidence actually starts, and scene of the opening may be in Ottawa as a preliminary to visiting provincial capitals. The real investigation will start with the provinces, Judge Rowell said.

In the meantime a great deal of research and private investigation will go forward by a corps of experts, the chairman said. He was not yet ready to announce personnel of the investigating group. It was possible their studies might take them outside the Dominion, but the commission itself would confine its activities to Canada.

Judge Rowell said it was "quite probable" the commission would have its own counsel. As far as could be learned no selection has been made. Chief Justice Rowell said he was satisfied the terms of reference gave the commission direct instructions to study the British North America Act with a view to recommending changes in the constitution necessary to improve economic relations between the Dominion and the provinces.

It is not anticipated the commission will have completed its report in time for the next session of parliament. There is also the possibility of the best any attempt is made to draft legislation based upon it, the report will go before a Dominion-provincial conference. This would open the opportunity for drafting of uniform legislation by provinces and Dominion.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE CONTINUED political campaign of Premier Aberhart is accomplishing the purpose for which he intends it. It is keeping the minds of those who voted for Social Credit from the main pre-election promise, $25 monthly dividends.

STRATEGY is one of the most important factors in Social Credit methods. There really is no plan of Social Credit: that is plainly evident from two years floundering since the election in 1935. The premier realizes it. To turn public attention towards something which will make them believe he is a doughty champion of their grievances, he conceived the banking legislation. He made it so drastic that the Dominion government was compelled to disallow it. But it gave Aberhart the opportunity he had been scheming for—to try and make the people believe that he was putting up a splendid battle with the banks.

MANY BELIEVE in his sincerity. We doubt it, and regard his whole program as the plotting of a very ambitious man whose chief aim is to be the great "I AM" among those whom he styles as being possessed of the mentality of "13-year-olds."

ONE OF HIS experts, (Powell or Byrne) was recently asked if he could name a single person in Alberta who had starved as a result of existing conditions. The reply was in the negative, and on being asked why such stories were being used, he replied it made good propaganda. The slogan "Poverty in the Midst of Plenty" is purely for political purposes. The welfare of the people is of secondary consideration.

IT WAS possibly a mistake to pass a resolution to stop his Sunday broadcasts. Full of political innuendo they may be, cloaked with appeals to religious emotion, but free speech and a free press are privileges and rights that must be maintained. As Aberhart himself states: "You can easily turn the dial if you don't want to hear what I have to say." Personally we regard it as a good afternoon's amusement, seeing through the whole sham of religious appeal which is staged for political purposes. It is probable that far more time is spent by the premier in preparing material for public addresses and broadcasts than on governmental business for which he is paid a very good salary.

BUT AS LONDONERS of all shades of political opinions tolerate the soap-box orators in Hyde Park, so might Albertans follow their example and let the premier blow off steam unhindered until he becomes exhausted or his followers regard the whole thing much as the small boy regards soap-bubbles.

DO NOT infer that we would advocate curtailing the voice of opposition against the prattlings and sarcastic abuse of the premier. His threats of depriving citizens of Alberta of their civil rights are far too serious to be ignored, and there is cause for righteous indignation against the proposals of Aberhart which have been concocted by Douglas and his experts (so-called) Powell and Byrne. People of Alberta should not overlook the danger that attaches to the government's scheme.

IT IS FOR that reason the unity of all parties opposed to Aberhartism is very essential. Many evils have been foisted on people through indifference. Once this happens, it is very difficult to effect a remedy. The alliance of Communists and Social Creditors should warn people of the danger of the present government's policies. Undoubtedly the Dominion government would be compelled to step in and prevent overt acts, but on the other hand experience has already taught Alberta what damage can be done by an irresponsible provincial government with a notorious self-seeker as its head.

NEWSPAPERS will continue to be a target for attack, especially as the banks are using their advertising columns to inform people of the functions of banking and to tell the truth. Already rabid Social Creditors are saying that the newspapers have sold out to the banks. The newspapers have sold advertising space to the banks on the same basis as they would sell to any other commercial concern. Premier Aberhart has done his best to rob Alberta newspapers of advertising, and not a single line of government advertising, except that of legal requirements as provided by law, has been given to newspapers since he assumed power.

WE MIGHT of course retaliate against the Social Credit party by using the same tactics as they have used against the newspapers, by using falsehood, innuendo and patry twaddle that satisfies only those who do not perceive that the wool is being pulled over their eyes while our pre-the banks and all other institutions, even the old political parties which he so much derides, have done far more than Aberhart ever will do for the development of Alberta and Canada. The record of the past two years reveals what?—nothing but boisterous broadcasts for beguiling the people, breaking of contracts, the promised dividends as far off as ever and nothing but a trail of inefficiency resulting in cabinet resignations, insurrection in the legislature and the handing over of governmental policies to Douglas, Powell and Byrne. Democratic government under such conditions eventually disappears, as it has in certain European countries, a point which our foreign born citizens should not fail to realize.

HOME-OWNERS MAY SECURE LOANS UNDER THE HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

H. I. P. Provides Facilities for Building Improvements

Local Firms Co-Operate to Enable Household to Take Advantage of Plan of National Employment Commission.

Every province in Canada has taken advantage of the facilities which may be used under the above plan to make building improvements or install modern conveniences in homes. The requirements are simple, as reference will show on securing a booklet from The Journal office, giving complete information.

This week we publish a page of advertising sponsored by the H. I. P., the Pattinson Hardware, Excel Builders' Supply Co. and Coleman Hardware. These firms are co-operating in carrying out improvements which may be made and financed on a very low charge. There is the advantage of getting the work done on a cash basis, which certainly effects a saving to the customer as against deferred payment plan.

Every householder will find some need for improvements in the home, such as a new heating system, new floors, or repainting and decorating. All these can be done under the plan and provide employment for those engaged in the various trades. Get a booklet at The Journal, then consult your plumber, or heating contractor, or supply man in whatever line you desire to make improvements.

Total Home Improvement Plan loans throughout Canada numbered 21,467 and amounted to $8,249,685.33 on August 23.

MAGIC with the HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN

$8,000,000 in HOME IMPROVEMENT LOANS

have worked Magic in thousands of Canadian Homes

Ten months have served to establish the Home Improvement Plan as a most convenient way of financing long-delayed home renovation and repairs and so putting men to work. Under its liberal terms, thousands of Canadian homes have been made more comfortable, more livable, more valuable.

Work Home Improvement Plan magic in your home this Fall. Give it the fuel-saving comfort of insulation; protect it with paint; install modern plumbing and heating systems; re-roof for beauty or security; build an extra room in the attic or basement; modernize the kitchen; build a fireplace or make any one of a dozen or more other improvements to suit your specific needs.

LOANS EASILY ARRANGED

Any contractor, supply firm or architect can help you arrange a Home Improvement Plan loan if you need it to finance the work for you, or you can apply direct to your banker. No security or endorsement needed; you simply show that you can repay in monthly instalments and the loan is made. The work process, your time is made better and more livable and more at needed jobs.

So Alberta Folk May Know...

ALBERTANS have heard from time to time a statement made that there appeared in the Bankers' Magazine of the United States, an article, the language of which, will be recognized by all who have heard it. The article referred to never did appear. You can read all about it in a statement issued by the Edmonton Clearing House, which appeared in the Edmonton Bulletin, the Edmonton Journal and the Calgary Albertan last March, and in the Ottawa Citizen last June. No matter whether Alberta folk hear these accusations under the guise of direct quotation from the supposed Bankers' Magazine or used as the words of any other person, they will be aware after reading the following, that the statements are false in any event.

Here is the text of the Edmonton Clearing House statement:

Banker Magazine Report Denied by Clearing House

EDMONTON FINANCE MANAGERS ISSUE STATEMENT REFUTING ALLEGED STATEMENT CREDITED TO U.S. PUBLICATION AND USED BY PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

For the purpose of keeping the record clear, and straightening out a situation which has arisen through the dissemination, apparently through misinformation, of a statement alleged to have been made in the August 25, 1920, issue of the Bankers' Magazine of the United States, officers of The Edmonton Clearing House, composed of Edmonton bank managers, have issued the following official statements:

On occasion members of the legislature and others have made use of an excerpt claimed to be copied from an issue of a Bankers' Magazine. The excerpt is as follows:

"Capital must protect itself in every possible manner through combination and legislation. Debt must be collected, bonds and mortgages must be foreclosed as rapidly as possible. When, through a pre-cess of law, the common people have lost their homes they will be more tractable, and more easily governed through the influence of the strong arm of the government, applied by a central power of wealth under the control of leading financiers. A people without homes will not quarrel with their leaders.

"History repeats itself in regular cycles. This truth is well known among our principal men now engaged in forming an imperialism of capital to govern the world. By thus dividing the voters we can get them to expend their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us except as teachers (I would say traitors) of the common herd. Thus, by discreet action we can secure for ourselves what has been generally planned and successfully accomplished."

This quotation was referred to by a member of the legislature on the government side as recently as last Tuesday, again creating the wrongful impression that the banks are inimical to the common interests.

NOT CONTROVERSIAL

It is not in the spirit of controversy that the Edmonton Clearing House wishes to draw the attention of the members of the legislature and the public to this unfortunate inaccuracy, but it seems only fair that the public at large should be acquainted with the facts.

The individuals using the quotation create the impression that the offensive words appeared in some banking journal, presumably in Canada. No article using the words quoted ever appeared in any Canadian banking journal. We are also in a position to say that no such words used in the sense indicated by some speakers, ever appeared in the Bankers' Magazine of the United States.

CHARGE REFUTED

Communication with the publishers of the Bankers' Magazine of the United States elicits the fact that in the August, 1920, issue of the magazine, there was an article refuting the charge that any such viewpoint had ever been expressed by any of the United States banking or financial houses. Strongly enough, the quotation so wrongfully used was supposed to have appeared in the 1892 issue of the Bankers' Magazine of the United States, and it was this accusation that the August, 1920, issue was refuting.

We now quote from the article in the Bankers' Magazine of the United States:

Alberta Faces More Experimentation

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 13.—With tually do nothing about the "Social Credit" he had preached, has made up his mind to follow any dictates of Douglas and become so radical in his talk and his actions that eventually the mass of the people will react and rise to demand that he disown Douglas, admit that "Social Credit" is a myth, and settle down to common-sense administration.

Alberta citizens themselves are the subjects of the experiments. In that way he would be able to tell his caucus that he was washing his hands of it and his election promises, and that he was going to follow the new dictates of "THE PEOPLE" in establishing a government on business principles and constitutional lines and the lines which Douglas recommended to recoup the ground which Al- ed; an act to license newspapers and berta has lost during its two years of newspapermen with the idea that the start-stop-and-reverse administration government in that way can strangle which has come close to separating criticism of itself in the best tradi- tional manner of dictatorship—these are known to be among the plans being prepared for the caucus, whether or not these plans are carried into the legislature itself.

Some observers believe that Premier William Aberhart, stung by the revolt in his party last spring and faced with the fact that despite all mass of voters that he is campaigning his campaign promises he could ac-

"Seeking to convey the impression that the bankers of the country are in a conspiracy to oppress the 'common people,' various agencies in some of the middle western states are circulating a series of pamphlets containing what purports to be a quotation from The Bankers' Magazine. That such a statement as is quoted never appeared in the magazine or anything even remotely resembling it is of no interest to the originators of the propaganda whose sole aim seems to be to create in the public mind a false impression."

UTTERLY INCONSISTENT

There then follows, in extenso, the remarks complained of and containing the quotation which has been so wrongfully and harmfully used. The magazine then goes on to say:

"It seems hardly necessary to state that such words never appeared in The Bankers' Magazine. They are so utterly inconsistent with the high spirit of patriotism and of public service which the bankers of the United States have always shown, that they might safely be ignored as preposterous and absurd were it not for the inflammatory effect that such garbled and false ideas might have on unthinking minds."

"The reader of such literature, especially if he be of that far too numerous class that prefers to receive its thinking ready made, will be only too inclined to jump to the conclusion that there is a conspiracy of bankers seeking to destroy the happiness and prosperity of the people. In this state of mind, he falls an easy victim to any soap-box orator who holds out an equally false promise of Utopia in the overthrow of the so-called capitalistic classes."

COMBAT WITH TRUTH

"The way to combat falsehood is with truth — not with indifference, not with hysterical recriminations that only engender a blind hatred that shuts out all reason. If malicious and misleading ideas are being circulated about bankers, it is clearly the duty of bankers to be equally diligent in the dissemination of truth. The public must be taught a proper conception of what the function of banking really is and the important part that it plays in the prosperity of the community. The shroud of mystery which has surrounded the business of lending credit must be removed. Bankers have nothing to fear from the truth."

"Much can be done through advertising. Already a marked change is noticeable in the character of banking publicity. More and more bank advertisements are being humanized and are making a real attempt to explain to the public something about the various services that a bank performs. But there is still room for improvement. There is still need for human interest publicity that will appeal to the man in the street and which will successfully combat with the propaganda of the radical. Until bankers fully awaken to the necessity for such measures they cannot justly complain if at least a portion of the public regards them in a light that is utterly false."

HONORABLE POSITION

We have nothing to add to the remarks in this article in the Bankers' Magazine of the United States. We can only say it is the endeavour of Canadian banking institutions to maintain their honorable position, and to continue to give service to the public in the broadest sense of the word.

Our hope is that now the facts have been disclosed, responsible and honorable individuals will cease to quote that which is known to be false.

Alberta Faces

Wednesday, 8,311 persons crowded into Victoria pavilion the annex and the grandstand in a gigantic protest against Aberhart's record and policies and in a demand that he resign. Applause raised by condemnation of him and his government was thunderous. His supporters who made themselves evident by heckling or boos numbered very few—and that was in "Social Credit's" home town.

It was announced that similar mass meetings are to be held in Edmonton, Lethbridge, Red Deer and other points. And it was considered significant that one large section of the Calgary crowd consisted of voters from the High River-Ookoks constituency, which gave Aberhart his seat in the legislature.

Although Social Credit propagandists had talked about 200,000 signatures, something less than 40,000 "true blue pledges" with which Social Crediters have been flooding the province for the past month had been signed up to last Sunday despite the fact that people attending Social Credit meetings addressed by members of the cabinet or of the "Social Credit board" were asked no questions about their eligibility as voters when they asked for pledges to sign, or when they were handed sheafs of them to take home for members of the family to sign.

Apart from Edmonton, where some definite measure of agreement was reached when the invitation was extended by representatives of various political groups to Provincial Liberal Leader E. L. Gray to enter the city bye-election on October 7 with united support, efforts to achieve province-wide united effort by political parties in opposition to the government have been advancing only slowly. Some party men are willing to submerge their own identities and those of their parties, others insist on keeping leadership themselves or on keeping leadership away from their old-line political opponents. But there have been signs that all the groups will be able to agree soon on some plan which will bring co-operation among them against Social Credit, in their attempt to prevent absolute disaster from befalling Alberta.

The Facts About Banking in Canada

Reproduced from the Second Broadcast in a Series by Vernon Knowles for the Chartered Banks of Canada and Delivered Over a Province-Wide Network of Alberta Stations on Tuesday Evening, September 14th, from 10:15 to 10:30, and Wednesday, September 15th, in the Afternoon from 1:15 to 1:30.

Tells How Bank Customers Have Been Paid $416,000,000 in Interest in Ten Years... If "Fountain Pen" Could Create Money There Would Be "Land Office" Rush for Bank Shares... Money Not Goods, Only Means for Transferring Goods or Services... Credit is Attribute or Possession of Individual, in Assets and Character... Cannot Be Wiped Out by Stroke of Pen... Next Talk to Deal With Burden of Taxation on Canada's Banks.

In the last ten fiscal years Canada's Chartered Banks have paid out to customers in interest on their deposits over Four Hundred and Sixteen Million Dollars.

In our first broadcast we told you that proper, safe and orderly banking is based, above all things, upon safeguarding the depositor's funds. We now proceed to deal with the "fountain pen" theory. In my travels I have encountered two great misunderstandings:

1. That the Chartered Banks create money by a stroke of a fountain pen — that we just write figures in a book and that that is the way our deposits come into existence.

2. That we then loan these deposits ten times over, thereby making vast profits out of nothing.

Now wouldn't this be a great perpetual-motion machine if it were only true. I mentioned that in ten years we had paid out over Four Hundred and Sixteen Million Dollars in interest to attract deposits. If we could create deposits by using only a fountain pen we need not have poured out such great sums at all.

You have all heard about bank failures in various parts of the world and of the losses that were suffered by depositors. If it were true that banks could create money simply by writing figures in a book, all that would be needed to avoid any bank failure would be a fountain pen.

And if banks could make such fabulous profits on money produced by magic from an ink bottle, they would be paying sky-high dividends, everybody would be selling everything they could lay their hands upon to buy bank shares and there would be a Land Office rush at Ottawa for bank charters. We shall deal with the question of bank earnings and profits in a later broadcast but, for will notice in the meantime, that nobody is scrambling to sell all that they own to buy bank shares and there is no Land Office rush on at Ottawa for bank charters. Now that there is any difficulty about getting a bank charter when responsible people apply for one.

Now would you not think that if the banks could perform all of the miracles that they are said to perform, some of those who criticize the banking system would secure charters and perform these miracles themselves?

Much of the misapprehension about how deposits arise is based on a fragment taken out of a statement made in 1925 by the Right Honourable Reginald McKenna, Chairman of the Midland Bank in England. That fragment is: "Every loan creates a deposit." From this statement, standing by itself, many wrong conclusions have been drawn. Mr. McKenna is now here in Canada. He was asked in Banff the other day to comment on his much quoted statement. He replied that it was true that a loan creates a deposit but that such a deposit would not be an asset on the bank's books but a liability—a debt which the bank must be prepared to meet demand just as fast as cheques were written against it.

He also pointed out that every deposit is a liability of the bank money the bank owes to the depositor and must be ready to pay on the instant.

You will remember the farmer, William Jones, who figured in our first broadcast. Besides being a hard worker and an honest man, he owns his farm and the house to work it, and this year he has a crop. However, he is still short of ready cash. We will use him to show you just what happens in this matter of loans and deposits. The farmers in Northern Alberta this fall are having to use power units with their binders.

William Jones finds that he needs one of these units. It is going to cost him, say, $100. This time he goes to the bank and asks the manager of the bank to lend him the money. He gives the Bank Manager his note and his account is credited with $100.—here is one of those deposits that has arisen from a loan.

Now let us show what happens to that deposit. Mr. Jones obtained his loan for a purpose. He proceeds to carry out that purpose. He gives a cheque to the implement man — the implement man presents it at the bank and is paid. We will say, in bills — so the deposit which arose from the loan has completely disappeared. A Bank Manager would indeed have to be a magician to be able to lend that deposit ten times over.

Now some listening critic may say: "But suppose the implement man does not cash the cheque. Suppose he deposits it in his own account — in that case has not the loan created the deposit?" The answer is that insofar as his deposit is concerned, it came from the marketing of his goods — a deposit based on something that is produced, some tangible thing transferred to the purchaser and paid for by him.

This deposit is in the same class as that of a man who saves and deposits a part of his wages. It represents the result of the sale of goods and the wages of labour. These depositors leave their money in the bank because they are satisfied to accept the bank's promise to pay instead of demanding cash. It is the accumulation of these funds that furnishes the basis of bank credit — the basis upon which banks can make loans. But it is impossible for a bank to lend more than the total of its deposits and its paid-up capital.

In the case of William Jones' loan and deposit, by no means under the sun can it be said truthfully that the deposit came from a fountain pen. It rested, absolutely, upon William Jones' assets, the Bank Manager's knowledge of William Jones' integrity and the reasonable certainty of repayment out of the proceeds of his crop. You have all heard that a loan gives rise to a deposit but have you ever thought about what it is that gives rise to a loan? Realizable wealth, character, and the likelihood of repayment by the man who wanted to rent the money from the bank, to make a profit for himself.

Let me present another case where a loan does not result in a deposit. Let us suppose the implement dealer himself was a borrower at the bank and when William Jones gave him the $100 which he had borrowed, the dealer reduced his own indebtedness by that amount. What has happened? The total of loans at the bank has not changed — neither has the total of deposits in spite of the fact that the bank has made a new loan to William Jones. What does all of this illustrate? Nothing less than that the bank has fulfilled one of the prime purposes for which banks exist, namely:—It has facilitated the exchange of goods and services; it has aided in distribution and it is doing the things that keep business going.

There is one more point I should like to mention and I am sure it is one which has occurred already to many of our listeners. Let us suppose that Mr. Jones, through bad luck, was unable to repay the $100. What then? The bank which enabled him to pay his bill to the Implement Company, cannot recover the loan; in other words, it is a bad debt. Too many bad debts would jeopardize the safety of the depositors' funds. It would take the gross rent on more than sixteen loans of $100 each, at six per cent, for one year, to make up for that one loss.

Now our listening critic may say: "Oh, but in any case you have not enough cash to meet more than perhaps one-tenth of the deposits you hold — so, if everybody called for their deposits all at once, you wouldn't have money enough to pay them. How do you answer that?"

Our answer is that if you will examine the sworn returns made by the banks to the Dominion Government, you will find that in addition to some approximately ten per cent of cash always on hand, there are huge sums in other assets — which the bank owns — of such a nature that they can be converted into cash.

And we answer further, that the whole population is not going to close out its savings accounts all at once.

We answer, too, that banks, by experience, have found how much cash is likely to be called for from day to day. If you have a deposit in a bank, I'll wager that there is many a day — or even many a week — when you do not call for any part of it. You do not put money into a savings account if you have immediate need of it. You put it there because you do not want to spend it. Banks know from practice how much they need to keep in cash to meet the average daily withdrawals. The rest is set to work — some of it as we have said, immediately realizable and the rest in short-term loans or in types of investment which ensure the greatest safety for the depositors' funds.

We answer further, that money is not wealth—it is only a means whereby wealth in goods and services is transferred. Your title deed to your house is not a house; your patent to your farm is not a farm — nor is a dollar bill, goods — it is only a title deed to real goods.

One five-dollar bill is not extinguished the moment one man pays it to another. If Harry Brown buys a hat from Tom Jones for five dollars and Tom Jones buys coal with it from Jack Robinson and Jack Robinson pays his grocery bill with it, there is $15 of business done with one five-dollar bill — so you will see, by these plain illustrations, how people can get along and do their daily business, without having to keep on hand mountains of five-dollar bills.

On a train in Alberta recently I met a farmer who held the idea that banks create unlimited money by writing figures in a book. As I talked to him in the smoking compartment of the day coach I found out that this farmer had lost $800 in a bank failure in another country. With part of the proceeds of his crop he had bought some cattle; the balance — $800 — he had put into his bank and lost it when the bank failed. I asked him if he regarded that $800 as simply some figures that somebody had written in a book and he answered: "No, I worked for it." He willingly agreed, then, that labour and the production of new wealth had something to do with putting money in a bank.

Out of the fact that banks in practice keep about ten per cent of the deposits available in cash has been developed the amazing distortion that we lend our deposits ten times over. A bank does not, cannot, create credit nor destroy it by a stroke of the pen. Credit is the personal possession, creation or attribute of the borrower. No bank can create it for him. The borrower has it himself by accumulation of assets from his own work; by his own character, ability and willingness to repay.

I would hate to try to convince any Alberta farmer or working man, whose savings came from his own production and his own labour, that his Savings Account was created by a stroke of the fountain pen. And I'd hate to try to convince him that the bank's liability to pay it to him in money when he wants it, can be wiped out by a stroke of the fountain pen.

Canada's Chartered Banks cannot and do not perform the miracle of making something out of nothing with a stroke of the pen. There is no black magic, no mystery about the workings of Canada's Chartered Banks. They operate under specific laws, restrictions and limitations which permit them to accept and safeguard other people's money; your deposits; and to lend funds to meet the legitimate needs of communities, individuals, merchants, farmers and others.

In our next week's broadcast we expect to deal with the tremendous burden of taxation at present borne by Canada's Chartered Banks. Watch your newspapers for the announcements. You may obtain a printed copy of this broadcast by dropping into your nearest bank, or you may secure a copy by mail by writing your nearest bank, or you may read it in the advertising columns of your daily or weekly newspapers.

A Curious Request

An Ontario Newspaper's View of Attempted Bank Legislation by Premier Aberhart.

Had Mr. Barnum been alive today, he would have seen in Alberta the truth of his oft repeated statement borne out: "A mucker is born every minute." When one sees the people of Alberta permitting Mr. Aberhart to put through legislation such as he has put through during the past few days, they cannot but wonder whether the Alberta people are asking for a taste of fascism. They certainly are getting it. Mr. Aberhart's Bank Bill is one of the most amazing pieces of legislation ever to be put through a Canadian Legislature. Not only has it stepped out of the Provincial field into Federal affairs, but it has virtually out of the banking industry from operating.

We hold no brief for banks, but we do know that their proper government supervision they are one of the country's greatest assets. Their strength and stability is seen when their record is compared with the record of banking in the United States. Mr. Aberhart proposes to turn over provincial finances to a group of men with a theory that has never been proved worthwhile, and a theory that distinguished economists tell us can lead to disaster. That is why we wonder that the people of Alberta continue to let Mr. Aberhart hoodwink them. Of course, we realize that there is appeal to a free gift of $25

It is an amusing thing to the news writers on a newspaper when they hear somebody suggest that they would like to have an item or an advertisement in the paper "where people will see it." The news writers know that people see every item and every ad. People see a "3" when it should be a "4" and they see the wrong initial, every misspelled name and every omission of items they expect to see. "Where people will see it" There is no place you can put anything in the newspaper that people will not see it.—Renfrew Mercury.

Home Improvement Loans Big Increase in Ten Months

Home Improvement loans up to July 31st in cities and towns of Canada totalled 14,340 and amounted to $5,705,065.03. At the end of June loans numbering 12,189 and amounting to $4,848,548.10 were reported from cities and towns in Canada.

In other spheres last week business men organized the "United Canada Association" to take action to uphold the authority of the dominion of Canada, and the integrity of Alberta as a division of confederation, through a series of tri-weekly broadcasts. This association urged all its listeners to tune in to every broadcast by Premier Aberhart and his followers and to attend Social Crediters' meetings whenever possible and study their literature. For, in contrast to the instructions which Aberhart long ago gave his followers to pay no attention to the claims or views of the opposition, the United Canada Association embraced the principle that the more attention people gave to Aberhart and his pronouncements, the easier it is to see through them.

Banks also began to take action to defend themselves in public opinion against Social Crediters' propaganda. Vernon Knowles, one-time Alberta homesteader, subsequently internationally known newspaperman and advertising executive, and now public relations adviser to the Canadian Bankers' Association, began a series of broadcasts on a province-wide network to present to the people the true facts of banking, at the same time staying well clear of any political entanglement.

His first broadcast was followed by this threat, voiced by G. L. MacLachlan, chairman of the Social Credit board and, as a member of the temporary provincial credit commission, one of the men who would have power to control banks under the terms of the disallowed banking legislation: "We are going to make it miserable for the banks; so miserable that it will be hard for them to operate in this province."

He made the threat in a speech at Lethbridge, but he offered no suggestions as to how farmers and business men and the ordinary public could expect to carry on their simple business transactions without banks to handle that business.

The royal commission investigating Alberta highways construction under the administration of Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works ended on Friday, and it was reported that Mr. Justice H. W. Lunney, as commissioner, would present his findings to the government before the end of the month.

Evidence during the last week of the three full weeks of the commission's sittings in Edmonton showed that Mr. Fallow and his new deputy minister, G. H. N. Monkman, have made no effort this time to collect from the dominion the $162,000 which remains unpaid from the federal government's $403,000 grant made available to the province under certain conditions of relief employment.

It showed that although under the terms of the dominion-provincial agreement 50 per cent of the men employed on provincial highway work were to be taken from Alberta relief rolls, less than 17 per cent of the employees were from those rolls, even though the dominion allowed total names on the payrolls to count, and to that end the province hired relief recipients for only ten days or two weeks each in order to get as many names as possible on the rolls. If from them and fulfill their wishes to man-days of labor were the basis of computation, it was shown, the number of relief recipients numbered less than 3 per cent of all the men hired for highway work.

The evidence showed that although the province paid a basic wage of 40 cents an hour on its highway projects, whereas contractors paid 37½ cents, the contractors actually paid the higher wage because workmen's compensation payments were additional.

It showed that highway work done under Fallow's policy of day-labor costs were much higher—twice as high in some cases and three times in others—than on work done on comparable highways under the contract system by which contractors present bids. But Mr. Fallow, on the witness stand, said that the government intended to continue the day-labor system. And the organ of the Communist party of Canada, the Daily Clarion, of Toronto, said in an article which pictured Premier Aberhart and the Alberta Communist secretary side by side, that the Alberta government should continue the day-labor system.

Bank accounts of Mr. Fallow and his family were studied by accountants for the commission and revealed nothing of interest to the investigation, Mr. Justice Lunney was told.

Other evidence showed that the statement to the legislature—a statement by Mr. Fallow, which purported to present the correct answers to questions asked by the house and which represented the cost of grading the Edmonton-Millet highway as 24.9 cents per cubic yard—was based

"Science built civilization; science must save civilization."

This is the message of Howard Scott, director-in-chief of Technocracy, Inc., who will address a public meeting in Coleman Saturday, September 25, in the Community hall, at 8 p.m.

Technocracy is a steadily growing organization. It is rapidly becoming the foremost movement for social change on this continent. Technocracy is the only organization with a plan in line with the march of events, a blueprint for the operation of the social mechanism. It is science applied to the social order.

Technocracy is vital news. The interest in Technocracy is increasingly far-reaching. On his first tour in November, 1935, the chief addressed a meeting of 1,500 in Edmonton, from which 1,000 were turned away; two Calgary audiences totalled 2,000.

SCHOOL CARETAKER REPLIES

Sept. 15, 1937.
(The editor is not responsible for opinions expressed in letters to the Press, and reserves the right to reject any communication submitted. Publication must not be taken as an endorsement of opinion or policies.—H.T.H.)

In reference to Miss Powell's letter which appeared in the Coleman Journal, also the letters sent to the board of trustees, Miss Powell says that she was locked in the school. This is just nonsense. No one can be locked in school. Upstairs there is a fire stair leading to the outside. Downstairs we have the front door leading to the outside, and then there is the north door. Altogether there are three doors to get out.

Referring to the lights. I seemed to be interfering with her night work. I had my orders from the trustees to put two padlocks on the light switch. In fact one of the trustees went to the Hardware store with me to purchase the locks. I did not want to put them on. I told them it would make trouble. But I did as I was told. A complaint was made the next night and the padlocks were removed. I fail to see where Miss Powell was obstructed in her duties. She was in school in the early morning all week and on Saturdays and Sundays. I only asked her to change her time once. It was a Sunday and the mining class had the use of one room. The school board told me not to let anything class, so that one class would not interfere with the other. She did not think the teacher of the mining class had his work at heart. She came just the same. An orchestra in one room and a mining class in the other. I am not running the school board but I am willing to take orders from them and fulfill their wishes to the best of my ability. Why did Miss Powell not make her complaint to the school board? I am sure they would have done their best for her.

Referring to the last regular meeting held last Tuesday in the board room. According to the Journal, many complaints had cropped up about the janitor. Well, the complaints must have been pretty small as I still know nothing about them. In referring to moving the West Coleman janitor to Central school and shipping me to West Coleman, I have heard nothing about it. If the school board thinks that this is going to be the solution for our everlasting troubles, then I will be very pleased to go to West Coleman school and take orders from Miss Yuill, principal at West Coleman.

on a departmental memorandum which said that the figures were obtained on the average costs of other highways in previous years. A note stating on the memorandum that the true cost of grading on the Edmonton-Millet project was 29.9 cents rather than 24.9 cents per cubic yard was deleted from the finished statement by the order of Mr. Monkman, the evidence showed.

The two-year-old niece of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Creeggan was drowned in a cistern at Warner on Tuesday, at the rear of the Texaco garage. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. V. Erickson, who on various occasions visited the Creeggans when they lived here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stark of Carmangay, and Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont were callers at The Journal office on Wednesday afternoon, on their return from a trip to Cranbrook and Kimberley. Mr. Stark recently sold the Carmangay Sun, of which he was editor for several years.

John Pietraszko, who for a year has been studying music in Warsaw, Poland, will remain there till next year, he states in a letter to his sister, Miss Balbino Pietraszko. He went there under a scholarship grant by the Polish Societies of Canada, after taking his early musical training from W. H. Moger of Hillcrest and W. J. Harris, formerly of Coleman.

A miscellaneous shower was held in the Italian hall on Monday evening for Miss Fiorina De Cecco, bride-elect. The hostesses were, Enes Salvador, Elsie Fontana, Anne Spievak, Margaret and Alwyn McLeod, and Mrs. A. Servello. Nearly seventy-five guests were present. The evening was spent playing whist, the prize winners being, Mrs. Geo. Jenkins, Mrs. Lewis Salvador, Mrs. O. Bomben and Mrs. V. Collagrosso. A very dainty lunch was served following which Mary De Cecco and Margaret McLeod carried in a basket filled with many lovely gifts.

Would Find Ready Market

England Could Sell Better Grade of Canadian Poultry

Canadian poultry is giving satisfaction on the English market, according to Henry Ridpath, of Ridpath Bros., Ltd., a leading importing firm of foodstuffs. London and Liverpool, who was in Ottawa meeting officials of the marketing and production services of the Dominion department of agriculture.

He went from Ottawa to Toronto to confer with representatives of the leading meat packing companies and then to western Canada to call on firms whose products he handles in England. He is on his way to Australia and New Zealand.

"While the Canadian poultry that is being exported to Britain is highly satisfactory," Mr. Ridpath said, "a higher proportion of the better grades would find a more ready market."

Keeping Oath Of Silence

Girl Denied Consent To Marry Has Not Spoken For Months

A vow of silence was taken by beautiful Bevilgia Panteshev, and she has not spoken for six months. The girl, daughter of a leading Sofia industrialist, fell in love with a young, poor chemist, Malinikov, six months ago. Two days after their meeting, the girl asked her father for permission to marry the chemist. Her father declared that he would never give his consent. The girl, therefore, took a solemn oath never to speak again. Malinikov left Sofia. Despite the pleas of her parents, the girl cannot be induced to break her oath of silence.

Third Picture For Quints

Plans Being Made For Another Movie Next Year

"Mother Knows Best" may be the title of the Dionne quintuplets' next picture, to be released "some time in 1938."

Officials of the Twentieth Century-Fox Films at New York said their coast office holds the story to which the antics of the five little girls may be harnessed in their third screen appearance. But the choice is not definite, and neither producer nor cast has been assigned.

Apparently, it will be next year before the cameras begin turning over in the playroom of the Dufour nursery, near Callander, to produce a successor to "The Country Doctor" and "Reunion." No word is planned for the quints during the balance of this year, according to the company's production schedule. The quints' contract, signed at the end of 1935, calls for three pictures over a period of three years.

"The Country Doctor," in which the five little girls crawled their way into the hearts of film fans, was released in March, 1936, with Jean Herscholt, Dorothy Peterson and Slim Summerville in the leading adult roles. "Reunion" followed six months later. Both were shown in 48 countries and translated into some 23 languages.

Realized His Dream

Salesman At Exhibition Sold Refrigerator To Eskimo

A refrigerator salesman at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, has achieved his fondest dream. He sold an electric ice box to an Eskimo. Philip Godsell, F.R.G.S., veteran Winnipeg explorer and trapper, vouches for the sale. It seems the Eskimos at Exhibition Park were suffering from the intense heat. They missed their Arctic snow box outside the igloo door. One short demonstration was enough when the salesman produced his "white man's magic."

Emile St. Goddard, veteran The Pas musher, who was also with the show, said he would use the refrigerator to keep his husky pups cool when they get overheated.

Walks On Ocean Floor

Scientist Covers Quarter Of A Mile In Strange Hike

Dr. William Beebe, of the New York Zoological Society, is back from Bermuda and a bit of casual strolling on the ocean floor.

Dr. Beebe's idea was to study marine life so he donned bathing trunks and a diving helmet, went into the water at new Nonnen Island and hiked across the bottom of the ocean to Longbird Island, a quarter mile away.

The depth, he said, was about 24 feet and the light comparatively bright moonlight. He obtained much new data about the "abundant" undersea life, he said.

Driving Test Sought

British Columbia Legislation May Be Asked To Pass Act

Attorney-General Gordon Wimmer said his department was "considering" asking the British Columbia legislature to pass an act compelling all automobile drivers in the province to submit to a driving test before obtaining driver's licenses.

The test was proposed as an effort to combat the mounting traffic death toll.

In the first eight months of 1937 traffic accidents claimed 80 lives in the province.

CHOICES AND THEIR CONSEQUENCES IN A NATION'S LIFE

Golden text: Choose you this day whom ye will serve. Joshua 24:15.
Lesson: Deuteronomy 11:18-12, 28-32.
Devotional reading: Deuteronomy 7:6-11.

Explanations And Comments

The Duty of Obeying God because of His goodness, Deuteronomy 11:1-9. The first six verses of this seventh chapter of Deuteronomy recount what God had done for the Israelites in saving them from the Egyptians, and then stops abruptly for, as verse seven declares, "But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord which he did," and the next verses begin with therefore. Therefore, because of their experience of God's goodness to them, they must keep all his commands.

The result of keeping the commands is that they may be strong, and go in and possess the land, whither they go to possess it. "One lesson, and the other, history may be said to repeat with distinctness; that the world is built somewhat as a vegetable garden. In the long run, it is well with the good; in the long run, it is ill with the wicked. It enjoys the direct blessing of God. A common Palestinian salutation during rain, 'May God protect you while he is blessing the fields.' (Dummelew.)

It was not as the land of Egypt, where they sowed their seed and then had to water it with their foot. They watered it by working with their hands in a vegetable garden. The farmer's translation, Egypt owed its fertility to the annual overflow of the Nile. This lasted only one over three months, and for the rest of the year the land had to be watered by mechanical appliances—systems of canals and forcing machines, etc. The "watering with the foot" was done, as it still is, by raising the water from the river by means of pumps whose tread-wheels were worked with the foot, or by diverting the water from the river into the separating ridges were broken down, or whose sluices were opened, by the foot.

The Choice Before the Hebrew Nation, Deuteronomy 11:26-32. A blessing and a curse were before the people: the blessing, the reward, would be theirs if they obeyed God's commandments; the curse, the retribution, would be theirs if they turned aside out of the way laid down for them to go after other gods which they have not known. "Gods who have not revealed themselves in deeds of deliverance and kindness as Jehovah has revealed himself in various forms. The Israelites' past experience of God's free grace in their election and redemption is the ground of their love and fear of Jehovah." (Dummelew.)

Discoverers Of Insulin

Did Not Make One Cent Of Profit From Invention

The discoverers of insulin did not receive one cent personally for their invention which paid others' profits of $400,000 its first year. This fact was made known in a symposium held by the American Chemical Society at Rochester, N.Y., on what to do about medical patents. Morris Fishbein, spokesman of the American Medical Association, said that Sir Frederick Banting of Toronto, the medical man in the discovery, received $1 for the patents, not being allowed by medical ethics to accept more.

He said Sir Frederick's four associates "who were not physicians have had the advantage of such royalties."

Dr. E. L. Hutchinson, now director of the Institute which was founded as a result of the discovery, replied Sir Frederick was offered the dollar, but didn't take it. Also, he said, the other four did not take a cent either. Some of the royalties, he said, were assigned to each of the five solely for further research work.

Spanish Banks, Vancouver, B.C. (Special Despatch by Bob Sim)—Vancouver, city of cloud and sunshine, has treated us generously with the latter for two days. Last night your Vagabond Voyageurs, sleeping innocently under the soft of Spanish and the North Star, were visited suddenly and unmistakably by the former. In words there is rain in Vancouver. They don't call it rain here. It is just dampish; it is a dry one they say, and you don't notice it.

Three days ago we scented the tang of salt water. Since Columbia misty days have been in the struggle to blaze a land or water route from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Strong, hardy men were consumed by the lure of unknown, the desire for adventure, unmindful of hardship—they sent themselves in search of the unknown. We had something of the feeling of the explorer or pioneer as we drove our legs into the soft of Spanish Banks. The goal achieved, the journey ended. Country Life from Coast to Coast was completed, perhaps not a pioneer effort, but at least a significant effort to reach the mind of farmers, and the joy of farming of our Dominion, which stretches as the Psalmist says, from Sea to Sea.

Spanish Banks

Before us the blue waters of the English Bay with the blue Coastal Mountains in background. On the hills behind us the University of British Columbia. On Spanish Banks, Sir George Vancouver landed and discovered the Pacific territory. Here Indian and white nuclei for white settlement. Here the miner driven by gold-lust landed and discovered the Pacific bearing waters of the Fraser and Thompson. Here the railway fastened its tracks on the coast, and the far flung territories of British North America.

From the railway port, mining town, and railroad terminus, Vancouver has grown to a ranking Canadian city; air, the industrial centre supplying the west with goods, eastward to the Orient. Prophets say Vancouver will challenge the supremacy of Montreal, the second largest city in the Dominion, to become Canada's greatest city. Already it is a cosmopolitan centre, a far cry from the quiet of a farming ground on the Spanish Banks.

Mountain Climbing With Floradora. Flora, the Ford, and Doris the dunderbush are waiting for your voyageurs since we last met over a mile a previous trail and difficult ascent. The road to the top of the Thompson river. The road down the Thompson and Fraser rivers which usually bears the name of the Fraser. How the Caribou traversed it is beyond me; and we will never know, for strange enough there is no trail in the country now. Even to-day with modern engineering and Flora's Fordish stubbornness the trail was an easy journey. The trail led us from the brink of the swirling Fraser waters up to dizzy heights of almost a mile above sea level. The scenery is beautiful beyond description, but the driver who admitted it without stopping may be mingled with the scenery in a way not approved by parents or teachers.

Camping facilities on the trail are as yet limited. Cooking our supper one night in the canyon we were expecting a visit from an upper joint a group of girls drifted in to join in our singing. We discovered that by flattery their singing they could be induced to wash the dishes. Take the tip, harassed husbands! They had a splendid party that compared favourably with a Boarding School in the East. It is operated by the Anglican church and it gave us a glimpse of the difficulties attending work among the Indians, as well as the achievements realized. All across the country we have been impressed with the efforts of the Home Mission Boards of our churches, as well as the opportunities for service that have not yet been explored.

While We Sojourn Here. The Caribou Trail, without its Caribou, brings us back to Vancouver and our little tent on the Spanish Banks. We will spend almost a week here before we sail for Vancouver Island; from the island we will travel directly and quickly through our great strait nation, going via Salt Lake City and Chicago.

But while we sojourn here a great deal is to be seen and learned. To-day we covered the waterfront. This was one of the C.P.R. queens of the Pacific to visit—the Empress of Russia—sleek as an Oriental goddess. Near the Empress we found the fishing fleet coming in, busy as ants, foot smiling. At the pier they unloaded salmon, and we saw the red net go into the cans we know so well in the East. It is raining to-day, you remember, or at least it is damp. Water logged as wharf rats we crawled into a cheap chow-house, to get a full course meal for fifteen cents.

Besides, we must visit saw mills, Stanley Park with Paul Johnson's tomb, the great Oriental section, and the University. But the visiting and the telling of it must wait till next week.

In France more men than women fall in the motor driving test.

SHE WAS X-RAYED
12 TIMESTried Electric Treatment
For Rheumatism

To suffer for five years with pains in the back . . . to be X-rayed 12 times . . . to undergo electric treatment for three years . . . and then to find that Kruschen was what she really needed to get relief—that was this woman's experience.

"Five years ago, I was taken ill with pains in my back. After three weeks in bed I was sent to hospital. At first, spine trouble was suspected, but after 12 X-rays I was found to have serious lumbar rheumatism. For over three years, I was given electric treatment three times a week. Last year, I tried Kruschen Salts, and it has done wonders. I have discontinued hospital treatment, and last winter, the first for five years, was free from pain. My friends are amazed to see me so well." (Mrs.) E.P.

In a good many cases, rheumatism cannot resist the action of Kruschen Salts, which dissolve the painful crystals of uric acid—the cause of those aches and pains—and assist the kidneys to eliminate this poison through the natural channels.

CHAPTER XI.

Hard times hit and rent the Ontario countryside in the spring of '39, as unexpectedly as a bolt of forked lightning strikes down out of a clear sky. All of a sudden and for the first time we observed the lowering storm clouds banking up to the south. Speaking of depressions, that was the granddaddy of them all! A search warrant was required to find a dollar bill in Upper Canada. It was not a matter of low prices on an untidy market; wheat and meat became unobtainable; the worried farmer hauled home his load of produce or trifled it off for trade. Public confidence and private credit had dissolved into thin air; and the spell remained unbroken in Canada until great guns started to speak of brotherly love as they shook the battlefields of the Republic.

How fortunate that in their days of plenty the pioneers of Upper Canada had built themselves stout barns and houses! Nowadays it is those very barns and houses that the farmers mortgage in order to gamble on the stock market. Before they get through, some of them will agree with me that the only stock for a farmer to own is livestock. The Canadian farmer was hard hit in the late fifties; but, generally speaking, what he had was his own with a rail fence around it. Men heavily in debt went under and went elsewhere, as they always do. And in the end, perhaps, they were the better for it.

As for the rest of us, we had plenty to eat—but no cash money. As a ship-owner overhauls his vessel in a slack season, William Marshall spent the years of depression putting his farm in first-class shape. Loose field boulders were dug out of the plowman's way. Long stone fences marked on this farm the grave of the great depression. It makes an old man smile to hear folk growing about high commodity prices. It is a taste of low prices that gives them all an acute belly-ache.

In the spring of 1861, the pride of the Marshall household returned home, after spending the winter with her mother's aunts in Philadelphia. Miss Elizabeth was now a smart, wholesome young woman in her nineteenth year. With all her travelling around, she had remained quick and soft of speech, and the girl had the air of always knowing right well what she was saying. Her cousin, Jennie Thompson, had come up to visit with her, and the presence of the marriageable young ladies made the Marshall household a mighty lively place. Mrs. Marshall was a jolly woman; and the result was that young people were constantly visiting the farm, and having a real good time. William Marshall was an open-handed host and not like the old fellow down the line whose daughter complained bitterly that her stingy old father said to young men: "Come up, come up after supper and stay till bedtime!" In fact the Marshalls went to the other extreme. They seemed at times to be running a boarding stable for smart driving horses. It was nothing unusual for a couple of young beaux to drop in to call and end up by staying two or three days. On one occasion two brothers from the second line west extended their stay till their father finally drove over himself to enquire wrathfully:

"Who do you reckon, boys, will be doing the chores up to home the balance of the winter?"

But Nancy Marshall mollified the man, and the father's horses also got a free meal out of Marshall's ostentatious.

Miss Elizabeth Marshall was a very popular young lady; but the grand-uncle, Letitia, was not altogether pleased that summer with the way things were going. The Marshalls made every one welcome and saw to it that they had a good time; but their daughter showed no preferences and she failed to develop the clinging qualities which I noticed in the grand-uncle's plea. When Jennie and Elizabeth went to a party, it was William Marshall that drove them out in style with his spanking pair and three-seated spring democrat; and no matter how late the hour, Mr. Marshall always went for "his girls." Indeed, Nancy would not have them depending on any young man for a ride home. Letitia thought Elizabeth was wasting valuable time, and that at her age she should be keeping steady company. The matter concerned the woman so much that she lengthened out her visit that summer; and by her twists of thought and subtle hints it was clear as day that her mind was bent on securing a match of some kind for Miss Elizabeth—but without any apparent result.

A few days before she left the Rev. Mr. Berry came over from his circuit at Markham to visit around for a few days among his old parishioners in Mono. Miss Letitia called him into conversation. Match-making was one of the specialties of a Methodist minister in the old days. On his return home, Rev. Mr. Berry bustled himself to some purpose. He wrote William Marshall eulogizing Samuel Arnold, a young farmer of the Markham circuit, who was "the only son of a godly family of great substance"; and in the end, Mr. Samuel Arnold received a warm invitation to come over to Mono for a visit along Mr. Berry's Methodist friends.

Meantime, the American Civil War was breaking out and there were prospects of high prices for Canadian farm produce. On the Marshall farm we were making special efforts to get in a large acreage in fall wheat. I had always been a strong healthy man, able to do a fair stroke of work; yet that season a listless spell came over me that made me thoroughly disgusted with myself. I thought at first it came from some ailment of the stomach. My appetite went back on me, which was certainly a novel experience. My mind would wander off most unexpectedly from the task in hand; and I would find, in addition, I was growing fatter. Such is the opinion of Francis Miles, a London physical culture expert, who although he is just under five feet nine inches himself, cited a number of facts about the height and health of man in evidence.

"The taller you grow the more of your growth goes into legs. Tall men have long legs and short bodies. But short men have short legs and long bodies," Miles said.

"The short man has plenty of room in his long body for powerful vital organs. And his short limbs give him greater leverage for his muscles."

Such word famous strong men, Sandow, Hackenschmidt, Samson, Dale, Maciek, Strongford, were all less than his own five feet nine inches, Miles explained.

Tall men rarely have well-developed bodies, he went on. They have rounded shoulders from stooping. Hospital experience proves that a tall man is not so healthy as his shorter brother, and is particularly liable to stomach and nervous diseases.

The physical culture expert declared: "The human body, like many other machines, functions best in an average man. Five feet nine is the ideal height for men, and five feet four for women."

Men over six feet six inches are technically known as "giants." And giants seldom live long past middle age. A man stands much more in chance of being healthy and happy if he is of short or medium height.

One can figure out a reason for almost everything except a smart aleck.

I realized I was in a terrible bad way. My heart was like an old stock pot that bursts suddenly into a boil after simmering a long time. It was honest, wholesome, human love that had struck me down. Paddy, said I to myself, my boy, you'll have to chuck a brace! Of course, the pride of the Marshall family had nothing but a friendly interest in me. For the girl to have an affair of the heart with a Catholic fellow would have seemed as great a disgrace to her connection as for her to run off with a drunken tinker. And from my own standpoint, the affair was quite as ridiculous. I belonged to a different race and breed; and as a good Roman Catholic, I saw it was a bad business entirely. But mulling such thoughts over in my mind only seemed to make my ears ring and gave me a sharp pain in the base of my skull. Before leaving Orangeville with the team, I slipped into a store and bought myself the largest bottle of patent medicine I could lay my eyes on.

Annual Reindeer Round-Up

Herd Now Reported To Exceed
4,000 Animals

Two hundred miles north of the Arctic Circle officers of the Department of Mines and Resources have completed the annual round-up of Canada reindeer herd. A wireless statement of the fawning and round-up indicates that the herd is growing rapidly and now exceeds 4,000 animals.

The fawning, which took place during April and May on Richards Island, a well-protected grazing area east of the Mackenzie river, resulted in the addition of 1,181 fawns to the herd, made up of 585 females and 596 males. While there were the usual unavoidable losses, the officers in charge of the herd state that the fawning was very successful and that the general condition of the deer is excellent.

During the round up the animals are put through the corals and counted. The young males and females are marked by having the right ear notched and the females in addition to the above mark have a numbered aluminum tag attached to the base of the left ear. At this time certain mature stags and aged females surplus to the requirements are singled out for slaughter. The count showed that in addition to the 1,181 fawns, the herd includes 1,954 yearling and adult females, 397 yearling and adult bulls, and 560 yearling and adult stags.

The reindeer as a whole have adapted themselves to the climate and local conditions on the reservation, and with the gradual replacement year by year of older animals by young stock born in the district, the herd is becoming more securely attached to the Canadian range. The herding is done by Laplanders brought from Norway, assisted by the native apprentices who have been selected for training as a part of the Canadian Government's scheme of developing among the Eskimos the art of reindeer husbandry.

Opinion Of Expert

Gives Facts To Prove Short Men
Are Healthiest

Short men are more handsome, stronger and heavier than tall men, and, in addition, live longer. Such is the opinion of Francis Miles, a London physical culture expert, who although he is just under five feet nine inches himself, cited a number of facts about the height and health of man in evidence.

"The taller you grow the more of your growth goes into legs. Tall men have long legs and short bodies. But short men have short legs and long bodies," Miles said.

"The short man has plenty of room in his long body for powerful vital organs. And his short limbs give him greater leverage for his muscles."

New! THIS YEAR
SUPER-LAYERBILT
even LONGER life and better performance

"I know this for a fact. When I switched to Layerbills last year—I found they lasted longer than any previous 'B' batteries I bought. Guess that's because they're built in layers—with no waste spaces."

Always good, now even better — Super-Layerbilt. The famous and exclusive "layer-built" principle, now improved so that your "B" batteries may have still longer life, still finer performance. Ask for Eveready Super-Layerbills by name. For your "A" battery power choose "Air Cell". It needs no recharging.

The words EVEREADY, LAYERBILT and AIR CELL are trademarks of the Canadian National Carbon Company, Limited.

I have always wondered what goes on inside a radio battery and what makes some of them better than others. Please send me your free illustrated book "An Engineer Looks at Radio Batteries."

For Brain Work

Device To Protect Mental Workers
From Fatigue

A new oxygen mask, which looks like a tightly rolled towel tied over the mouth, protects mental workers from fatigue caused by thinking.

The mask was described to the American Psychological Association by Dr. Arthur G. Bills of the University of Cincinnati. It delivers to the wearer a combination of about 50 per cent. pure oxygen mixed with air.

It is cut out in half the number of pauses per minute that come to persons doing brain work. These pauses happen to everyone. They have been attributed to mental fatigue—the brain taking a short rest.

It has been suspected the fatigue was not due so much to grey matter getting "tired" as to failure of the blood to supply all the oxygen the brain wanted. Dr. Bills has been testing his idea for several years.

Carries Peacock Feathers

Captain Defies Superstition But
Objects To Friday Sailing

A sea superstition respected by sailors the world over has been successfully defied for a year by a Bass Strait (Australia) skipper. Capt. H. R. Sims of the ketch Evasia, was challenged a year ago by Mrs. Jackson, lessee of Prince Seal Island, to carry a bunch of peacock feathers for a year and escape trouble. The feathers have been fixed to the cabin wall ever since, and the vessel has had no misfortunes.

"Everything has been normal and I intend to keep the feathers aboard," said Capt. Sims. "Nevertheless I have a few superstitions. I would not sail on a Friday if I could avoid it."

What's In A Name

Small Boy Whose Name Means
"Fasting" Weighs 143 Pounds

A three-year-old boy living at Siveston, a small town in Southern Anatolia, Turkey, weighs 143 pounds. He is believed to be easily the heaviest child of his age in the world. The boy, whose name is Ramazan, which in Turkish means "fasting," is only two feet tall. He has four brothers and a sister, all of whom are quite normal. His father, a poor ferrier, is very proud of his remarkable son, but has refused several offers to exhibit him at country shows. Doctors are taking an interest in the case and predict that if Ramazan's growth continues at the present rate, he will become the world's heaviest man.

Has Many Definitions

Splashing Mud On Pedestrians One
Form Of Reckless Driving

Reckless driving has many definitions in Magistrate F. W. Walker's court in Walkerton, Ont. Driving through a mud puddle on the highway and splashing pedestrians with the moisture and mud constitutes reckless driving and he fined Leander Ermewell of Chesham, a total of $14.25. The accused is alleged to have driven through a deep puddle of mud on a bridge in Brant Township while a local manufacturer and his wife were standing near.

An Oregon man made wooden dishes, cutlery, and other implements for use by explorers during an expedition to the Antarctic regions, where the intense cold would cause metal articles to injure the flesh.

There are about 60 housemaids employed at Buckingham Palace, in London, England.

Little Helps For This Week

When I sit in darkness the Lord shall be a light unto me. Micah. 8:1. How oft a gleam of glory sent Straight through the deepest, darkest night, Has filled the soul with heavenly light.

With holy peace and sweet content. If you are bewildered and know not what is right nor what is true, you stop thinking whether you do or not, and rejoice to be in the dark, knowing that very thing is the fact of God's infinite being. Can you take trials into your own heart and be ignorant of the reason for them, not because you are obliged to do it but because that being God's will is also yours. Do you not see that a person who truly loves God is one with him, and cannot be uncomfortable or unhappy. That which befalls us is what He wills and desires, and holds best for us, and to know God is to utterly sacrifice self.

Used For Decorations

Convex and concave mirrors were first popular in Sheraton's day in 18th century England. They were adorned with ornate gilt branches for candles, the tiny lights being reflected many times in the depths of the mirrors. These decorations continued in favor for many decades, and still are being made for colonial period houses in this country, though to-day the candle branches have been removed.

A combination of science and practical knowledge probably greater than is required in perhaps any other engineering work is involved in the design and construction of a bridge.

THE DAYS OF REAL SPORT

Tom Lloyd, Bill Brown, Alf. Phillips Sr., and Lorenzo Richards experienced the "joys" of motoring on Sunday evening after completing a day's fishing up the Elk river.

Returning home over the rough road, an axle of their car broke at a place fully twenty miles from a service station. Lloyd and Phillips watched the car while Brown and Richards walked for aid. The latter pair, after walking two miles, decided to call it a day and made camp for the night alongside the road, travelling into Michel the next morning for a new axle which they had the mechanic take to the stalled car and install. They returned home Monday with their fish and a new experience in the realm of fishing.

FIRE CAUSES STIR ON FIFTH STREET

For the first time in months the fire alarm called out the brigade on Saturday last at 11 a.m. to an outbreak at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmerson. Their son Bob had been industriously cleaning up the rubbish, making a real Saturday job, and burning it in the furnace. Some sparks must have alighted on the roof, the shingles of which were very dry, and very quickly they began to burn. Damage estimated roughly at $200 was caused, the interior of the house being badly soaked.

THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW!

A question that might well be referred to Premier Aberhart to be answered over the radio is: "To what extent have Alberta people benefited in reduction of taxes or increased purchasing power since August 22, 1935?" Another question: "Can he or any other Social Credit advocate tell the people in simple language what his plan really is?"

The language of Powell, Byrne, Douglas and Aberhart is simply not understood by such "dense" crowds as those attending that rally in St. George's Park, Calgary.
